In the fields of Cultural Policy, Arts Management & Arts Education

Take your students to Vienna! EDUCULT offers you and your students a mind-challenging experience in a vibrant cultural city and plans a unique study abroad program according to your specific focus and interest.

EDUCULT provides representatives of universities and other higher education institutions the opportunity to jointly plan a customized intensive study abroad program in the areas of cultural policy, arts management and arts education in and around Vienna this summer beginning in mid-May until the end of August. Your students will gain in-depth insights in various fields of practice – financing, managing, curating, producing and educating arts and culture – as well as a chance to develop their critical thinking capacities in a thought-provoking atmosphere.

What you will gain from joining us this summer

The EDUCULT Summer Academy opens up a wide range of perspectives in the Viennese cultural scene and offers an encounter with its protagonists. It enriches your curriculum with experiences and insights from theory and practice.

- Manifold insights into the cultural scene of Vienna
- In-depth examination of your specific areas of interest
- Building cross-cultural awareness
- Critical and comparative reflection in a European and international context
- Interaction with prominent, respected leaders in the field
- Connections through EDUCULT and Summer Academy partners that can often lead to internships in the future

” One of the most important contributions of the study abroad program was the unique opportunity that students had by being in a role of active observers of a very different and particular cultural system.

Abroad Program | University at Buffalo/NY

Customized content and implementation

The EDUCULT Summer Academy is directed at study programs in arts and cultural management, policy and education at all levels.

We plan your individual Summer Academy according to your group's thematic interests, syllabus and timeframe. A customized program according to your group's needs and interests combines the diverse areas of management and financing culture and the arts, cultural policy and planning, participation and education, audience development etc. with theoretical reflections.

Profound insights into theory and practice

Our local, European and international network of experts and institutions enables us to approach your area of interest from various perspectives. We focus on formats that encourage active student participation.

A wide range of different formats provides variation as well as space for in-depth exchange and reflection. Hands-on, proactive workshops and visits behind the scene of arts and cultural institutions are discussed in settings facilitated by EDUCULT staff. We regard dialogue and interaction as one of the key elements to enable learning.

- Vivid discussions with artists, curators, educators and cultural managers
- Theoretical reflections with academics of leading Austrian arts universities
- Access to an impressive array of cultural site visits (i.e. opera, concerts, theater, museums and more)
- Participation in events, festivals and performances

” The Institute for Cultural Management and Culture Studies appreciates the productive exchange with EDUCULT as one of the most progressive institutions in cultural policy and arts education – in theory and practice.

Vienna's diverse cultural life

Vienna is known worldwide for its cultural traditions that win the hearts of arts-lovers and attract tourists from near and far. Vienna has repeatedly been awarded the city with the highest quality of life in the world, and has been recognized for being a city where start-ups, innovation, sustainability, and the economy thrive. Many international organizations like the United Nations and OSCE call Vienna home.

EDUCULT also shows your students the creative developments that are taking place in contemporary Vienna. Arts, design, architecture, music, theatre and dance are produced by a young generation that is shaped by diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds. In addition, education and participation programs are developed that target Vienna's population.

These developments are moving from the fringes to the flagships of bourgeois culture and are incorporated in marketing and audience development strategies. A changing population shaped by migration also challenges established concepts of public cultural policy and funding. By showing these controversies and perspectives, the EDUCULT Summer Academy creates an inspiring atmosphere for your students, offering both food for thought and practical ideas.

” On the whole – as we reflect back on the Summer Academy two months later – we continue to marvel at the depth and scope the Summer Academy managed to cover in eight short days. The Summer Academy in Vienna with EDUCULT was precisely the immersive, research driven experience the UB Arts Management Program was looking for.
